

Function calls create temporary stack frames

Local names disappear when a frame returns; the returned value can enter the caller's frame.